

IT world. Pros in a format without cons!

In our time is freedom of choice speciality. There are many variants where to go to work. I, as a young and cheerful person, very interested in profession which would help me to develop, cultivate, and always to keep pace with the times.

My choice of profession is not accidental. I choose System administrator- it's not just a job, it is an opportunity! In the age of computer, technology for such specialists as me will always be in demand. As today so many years later technologies and means of communication will change but the profession will be. Besides, IT world is very exciting! There are opportunities to learn about all new products, and amaze friends and acquaintances with this knowledge. Also it is an possibility to invent something new, because the marketplace of ideas is infinite! One of the arguments - this is what I see no disadvantages in this profession. System administrator profession need too wide list of required knowledge and skills , which in itself is not a negative factor. Of course, there is a complication in the development and complexity of the technical literature, because the most of it in English, but this problem is solved.

In conclusion I want to say that my profession is more promising, and I want to become a master of craft, my future plan is to finish university and get ready go to job. So I started to pay more attention to my studies and professional skills.
